The frame house is a one and one-half story, three-bay by two-bay structure on a concrete foundation. It has a gable front main facade with a gable roof covered in asphalt shingle. The main facade also has a hipped porch roof, a small concrete entrance porch and a side entrance plan. The house has a rectangular plan and appears to have been constructed in the mid-20th century.

The frame house is located on the east side of Rt. 65, .27 mile south of I-70. It is situated in a cluster of buildings from the mid-20th century to the present time.

The walls of the structure are covered in white siding. The roof has two shed-roof dormer windows on both sides of the gable roof. The main facade has a entrance on one side and a two-section window on the other. There is a two-section window in the gable. A brick flue is located at the peak of the roof about three-quarters of the way towards the rear of the building. In the rear of the building is a small addition with a shed roof.

There are significant outbuildings on this property.
